ARMENIANS BUTCHERED BY FLEEING OTTOMAN TROOPS

Latest Victory of Grand Duke Nicholas Already Producing Political and Military Results; Rumania Arming To Join Allies

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
LONDON, February 19.—The Grand Duke Nicholas has formally reported the victory of the Russian army and the destruction of the Turkish forces at Erzerum. His despatch to the Petrograd war office announces that the forts guarding the city were found filled with Turkish dead when the Russian soldiers entered them. The Slavs, he adds, are pursuing the remnants of the shattered Turkish army, which is in disorderly retreat.

Eg Guns Captured
All of the fortress artillery with which Erzerum was defended fell into the hands of the Russians, as well as a large number of field pieces and immense quantities of ammunition, with scores of automobiles and motors and a complete wireless apparatus.

Petrograd received the news of the fall of the Turkish city with demonstrations of rejoicing. All over the country there were religious services of thanksgiving, and the streets of the capital and the larger cities have been filled with enthusiastic crowds, say reports from Russia.

Armenians Butchered
That section of the Turkish army which escaped from the grips of the Russian wings is said to have gone mad with fear and hate before they fled. Thousands of Armenians are reported to have been butchered by the Turks before the city was cleared of the Ottoman forces. Scores were looted and women outraged, or dragged off with the fleeing army to slavery.

The fall of Erzerum is already having its political and military effect. Late reports from Bucharest to this city declared that the Bulgarians are getting ready to enter the war on the side of the Allies and that the armies of that country are being massed for a thrust against the Bulgarian border. It is asserted that masses of Russians are being gathered in Bessarabia to hold that line so Rumania may transfer her forces to the Bulgarian frontier for the stroke.

Trick Brilliant One
Petrograd also reports that in the capture of Erzerum the Slav commanders executed a brilliant trick which completely deceived the commanders of the Turkish garrison. Feinting with Turks so steadily that the Ottoman generals were tricked into the belief that the main attack was coming there. Instead the chief assault was delivered in a surprise frontal attack, that broke the Turkish defenses like paper and drove the Ottoman army in a rout toward the west and south.

The Grand Duke Nicholas, in his report, gives no hint of the next step in the campaign, but it is believed that the Russians have already pushed on past Erzerum toward Barbut, seventy-five miles northeast of the captured city, on the road to Trebizond.

Minor Events Elsewhere
Also there are reports that the Slavs are seriously contemplating a rear attack on Constantinople, which their allies the French and British failed to reduce by the campaign on the Gallipoli peninsula. There is nothing official or even semi-official, however, to indicate that such a move is contemplated.

The German newspapers, although there is still lacking any official confirmation of the Russian triumph at Erzerum from Turkish sources, accept the reports of the Slav victory, but minimize the importance of the capture and its military or political effects.

For the rest of the far flung lines of the war there is but the reports of minor events to stir the interest, except in Albania, where the Austrians, reinforced, are said to have taken Kavaja, near the city of Durazzo. If this is proved true later, it will mean that Durazzo is now practically surrounded by the advancing Teutons.

Berlin claims that the British attempted again to regain lost ground near Ypres, but failed utterly, and suffered heavy losses under the fire of the German guns. The only action on the French front is said to have been an unsuccessful assault on the German trenches south of the River Somme. For the rest, there was but the usual artillery exchange.

The Austria-Italian theater reports no changes, save that Vienna declares the Italian artillery fire is slackening.

Parliament learned last night that Premier Asquith is planning to ask an additional war credit of four million pounds soon.

DIRECTORS RESCIND SALE OF P. M. SHIPS

Seven Vessels of Panama Fleet Were Included in Deal Now Revoked

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
NEW YORK, February 19.—Stockholders of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company have approved action of directors of the line in rescinding the sale of the steamships Peru, City of Para, Newport, Aztec, San Juan, San Jose and Pennsylvania to W. R. Grace & Co. The steamships, which were of the Panama fleet of the Pacific Mail, were sold last fall.

DESAPRISE COMES AS SURPRISE

This despatch is unexpected and enigmatic. The Panama fleet was sold to the American International Corporation, a newly organized concern with $50,000,000 capital stock, and W. R. Grace & Co., the well known Pacific shipping firm, was Pacific agent, and generally was understood to be part of the deal. The fleet has been operated to Central America, as it was by the Pacific Mail, but recently announcement was made that the Pennsylvania would be loaded at San Francisco for the Orient, and the International has been considering strongly the resumption of the Transpacific trade of the Pacific Mail.

The International was organized for the general purpose of furthering American trade with foreign countries. The Pacific Mail Steamship Company's reorganization had just been perfected in New York, and the following board had been elected: Geo. J. Baldwin, Lawrence H. Shearman, Maurice Bouvier, Amos Higgins, E. P. Gerson, H. W. de Forest, Charles A. Stone, Frank B. Anderson and John H. Rosseter. The new officers are: President, George J. Baldwin; first vice-president, John H. Rosseter; second vice-president, Gordon C. Carson; secretary, Amos Higgins; assistant secretaries, Chas. A. Lotz and H. E. A. Maitton; treasurer, Percy Mays; assistant treasurer, M. B. Wallace; auditor, H. E. A. Hamilton; W. R. Grace and Co. De Forest are the only former Pacific Mail directors. Maurice Bouvier and Amos Higgins, who have been elected temporarily, will later be succeeded by Joseph P. Grace and Robert F. Herrick. Mr. Rosseter was general manager of W. R. Grace & Co., and was to be in active charge of the fleet. The board is headed above was of International and Grace officials.

NOTLEY MAY AGAIN HEAD 'LOST CAUSE'

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
HOME RULE, Standard Bearer's Arrival Creates Stir in Ranks

A small-sized stir has been created in the ranks of the fast diminishing Home Rule ranks with the arrival in the city last Tuesday from his home in Honolulu, Hamakua, Hawaii, of Charles K. Notley, who succeeded the late Robert W. Wilcox as standard bearer of the Lost Cause.

The Home Ruleers carried practically every office, from delegate to congress down to poundmaster, so to say, in the first election held on the islands following the organization of the Territory, but they lost ground every two years since and the only man they have succeeded in electing since is General Henry Kawehi, whom West Hawaii voters passed in sending to the lower house of the territorial legislature. While Kawehi is rated a Home Rule, West Hawaiians, whether of this party affiliation, Republicans or Democrats, back him so that he generally heads those elected in the number of votes received.

As a constant and unsuccessful candidate for delegate to congress Charles K. Notley is quite as famous as the "Peerless One," who has so far failed of filling the presidential chair in Washington. It is almost sure that Notley will be the Home Rule candidate next November for the delegateship, if the party puts a candidate in the field, there are but a handful of the faithful left in the party.

Several names have been suggested since the day of the year, but none of them with the stamp of official approval so far as is now known. It is believed, however, that Mr. Pinkham has definitely decided upon his man, and is waiting until the ending of Mr. Tucker's term before announcing his choice.

ONLY A BACKACHE

At first it may be only a backache, and too many people either wait for it to wear away or try to drive it out with liniment or a plaster. Don't mistake a kidney backache. Put that mistake to rest. It is too valuable a warning to be overlooked. Suspect your kidneys. The kidneys are in the small of the back, and are quite likely to ache and throb if overworked or inflamed. If it is the kidneys that are aching there may be other conditions to confirm the suspicion, such as too frequent, scanty or painful urination, and sediment in the urine; dizzy spells, recurring headaches, nervousness and a dull, tired state. YEE YU KEUK CHARGED WITH KILLING CHEE WEN YER

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
HONOLULU, February 19.—Yee Yu Keuk, a Chinese merchant, was charged yesterday with the murder of Chee Wen Yer, a Chinese merchant, who was found dead in his room in Palama. He had been shot in the head, the bullet penetrating through the top of the skull. Death must have been instantaneous.

It is alleged that Yee Yu Keuk had vowed to revenge himself for a fancied injury done him by the dead man. Chee Wen Yer, on one occasion, gave the police the tip of where Yee Yu Keuk could be found. A handkerchief found near the scene of the murder is said to have been marked with Yee Yu Keuk's name. The police claim that they have now at hand much circumstantial evidence which points to Yee Yu Keuk as the murderer.
